

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

IN MEMORIAM
HENRY REYNOLDS HATCH
A MEMBER OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL
1913-1915

The Board of Trustees and Advisory Council of The Cleveland Museum of Art wish to place upon record their sense of loss in the death of Mr. Henry R. Hatch on May 20, 1915.

Mr. Hatch's official connection with the Art institutions of Cleveland dates from February 3, 1900, when he became a member of the Board of Trustees of the corporation now known as The Horace Kelley Art Foundation. Early in 1914, after the formation of The Cleveland Museum of Art, he became a member of its Advisory Council. In both capacities he served during the remainder of his life, with that conscientious faithfulness and efficiency which characterized his relation to every undertaking with which he was identified. His long experience with the commercial development of Cleveland made him a wise counsellor; his active and intimate connection with many public enterprises and philanthropies gave him an extensive experience and breadth of vision which were always in the highest degree helpful; his kindness and always youthful enthusiasm made him a constant source of inspiration at all the meetings of the Board and Council.

Deeply mourning his loss, his associates wish to express their recognition of the value of his long and loyal service to these institutions for the promotion of Art, and their appreciation of those splendid qualities which have left their mark so indelibly impressed upon the many institutions for the betterment of Cleveland, with which he was associated during his long and busy life.

On motion duly seconded and unanimously approved, the foregoing resolution was adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes of the corporation, and a copy thereof sent to Mrs. Henry R. Hatch.

---